ARMED YEGGS IN WOODS TERRIFY MAINE FARMERS

BRUNSWICK, Me., August 24.—Terror reigns in the country around this town and farmers in Bowdoinham, Lisbon Falls, Freeport and Topsham have armed themselves to resist attack by two yeggs who are hiding in the woods and are suspected of being the burglars who broke into the Lisbon Falls postoffice about midnight on Monday, carrying away $65 in cash and a quantity of postage stamps.

A general hunt through the surrounding country to corner the yeggs will begin as soon as Postoffice Inspector William B. Robinson returns from Bath, where he went to consult with Judge Duntion about preferring against Charley Crawford the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

PRISONER HAS CHARGE OF BUCKSHOT IN LEG.

Robinson was to hold the prisoner, who is lying in the police station here with a charge of buckshot in his left leg, until he learns whether or not he is one of the yeggs who made the Lisbon Falls break.

Robinson is the father of all the yeggs who have been arrested. He is a fearless gun fighter and carries the sons of bitches around in his pockets.

Crawford was taken to Topsham in a field car, and he will not be released until he is released.

NEW BEDFORD JOB STORES LABORERS

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 24.—Six men who are excavating a foundation for a building on Backus street, today were attacked by a crowd of strike sympathizers, pelted with stones and driven into a nearby barn. They were kept there for some time, but the police finally arrived and drove the rioters away. Several of the strikers were hit with stones, but were not seriously hurt.

H. T. Converse of Boston, who is in charge of the strike here, found that he fired strike-breakers from Boston had despatched this morning. The men had been locked up in a barn all night, and when they were released they decided that strike-breaking wasn't worth while and departed. There was a conference today at which he said he was willing to pay the strikers $40 cents, but objected to $50 cents for building laborers.

Under orders from Chief of Police Mason scores of strikers were searched today for firearms. Chief Mason had an intuition that many of the strikers were armed, and that there would probably be a deadly clash between them and the men at work on the buildings at which a strike had been declared.

In response to a hurry call from two points in the vicinity of the Sharp mill, Chief Mason, with Deputy Chief John C. Barker, hastened in automobiles to halt 200 strikers marching from several directions toward the mill today. Sixty strikers were seen in the neighborhood.

The strikers made some noise at the mill and were in a sulky mood. They moved only when urged along by the police, who used their clubs. There was an outbreak as a result of the prompt action of the police.

John Rankin of Strikers.

Superintendent McDonald of the Sharp mill was notified this forenoon that the strikers had been ordered to quit today after their wages were raised. On the Kilnville mill, however, the strikers were expected to be at work today after their wages were raised.

John H. Baker, a constable of Dartmouth, was unable to disperse strikers who gathered in the street there today and he called for police.

COOL, COOK HOT, COOK HOT, COOK HOT

A story of how a woman is alleged to have suffered from a heat stroke, and how she was rescued by a man who was with her at the time.

Delia's Story. This is Delia's story. I have worked for Mrs. Mori three months. Last Saturday night, a week ago, Mrs. Mori went out and she did not return until midnight. I waited up for her. The next morning Mrs. Mori complained about the work. There were words. I will not tell you more.

It was in the kitchen. There were words. Mrs. Mori was chopping up with a cleaver. She came toward me with the knife in her right hand and her arm outstretched. She struck me a blow on the head. She then pushed me out of the house.

On Sunday morning, August 14, I came down and went into the house. I found Mrs. Mori in bed. She was very ill. I called for a doctor. He came and said that Mrs. Mori was suffering from a heat stroke. He said that she had been in the kitchen for a long time and that she had been very hot.

This afternoon in the last time the Browns will have the opportunity of seeing Jack O'Connor's homey Browns play here this season, though Manager Deane's hand of players have now more or less been set on the schedule.

The big attraction today, if present plans are carried out, will be in seeing the new end of the Red Sox tried out to the pitchers box, the California team has been playing with a losing team before he came to Boston. Hunt has range of a record in the California State League, but that will be made good.

In the California State League he was more than half his game for Sacramento and had poor lucking. His best team was last winter, when he was won several games in the Imperial Valley League. In addition to this he has a good reputation as a pitcher.

The new man is a southpaw and is expected to be the new end of the Red Sox tried out to the pitchers box, the California team has been playing with a losing team before he came to Boston. Hunt has range of a record in the California State League, but that will be made good.

For St. Louis it is expected that Hunt will be between the points. Yesterday O'Connor was obliged to use four of his second artists, and Ray was used for the last.
